Herbal medicines or herbs are safe and effective. Traditional medicines may work well in the case of trauma, acute illness and emergency but are less effective when it comes to prevention, and in dealing with the emotional, spiritual, and mental needs of a person. These are exactly the areas where herbal remedies excel. To the majority of the worlds population, around 80% to be exact, herbal medicine is not an alternative medicine, but rather the basis of a sound and integrated approach to longevity. Herbal Remedies for Longevity: Herbal Remedies for Increased Vitality and a Healthier Life is your first step into achieving and preserving long-term health and wellness through herbs. To Westerners herbal medicine is something that is not taught in medical schools, and something that medical practitioners dont do, or generally know nothing about. for a specific set of problems, and most of the time its because people are highly attracted to the idea of utilizing natural herbal remedies to help with the healing process.
